Research Funding at McIntire

Management and distribution of funding for research at the McIntire School of Commerce occurs through the McIntire Centers for Excellence and the Office of the Senior Associate Dean. The funding:

- Derives from the McIntire Foundation endowment, annual giving, and competitive grants
- Finances, among other things, purchases of large data sets and market intelligence, as well as access to high-performance computing
- Promotes high-quality research at a level with other top business schools
- Encourages cross-disciplinary cooperation at UVA and peer schools

McIntire Centers for Excellence

The McIntire Centers of Excellence are central to research funding in a number of core areas within the School. The Centers also fortify the School's curriculum and outreach to the professional community. The Centers include:

- Center for Investors and Financial Markets
- Center for Business Analytics
- Center for the Management of IT
- Center for Global Commerce
- Galant Center for Innovation and Entrepreneurship
- PricewaterhouseCoopers Center for Innovation in Professional Services

Office of Associate Dean for Faculty and Research

The Office of the Senior Associate Dean is responsible for evaluating and distributing research funding for all projects not covered by the McIntire Centers for Excellence.
